

It is quite simple:

The level of an MP's salary should be determined by a truly independent body

MPs should be subjected to the same rules of taxation as those in every other walk of life.

All of their expense claims should be subject to review by a truly independent body

Nobody expects an MP to be financially penalised for carrying out the job that his/her constituents require to be done. But neither should they expect to receive windfall profits

A L Gorst